

Here's my first hand-pieced quilt made in 1999. My son, Scott (in a cast, below), picked out the wild colors and designed the "sunshine" block. I machine quilted it.

Here's my first machine-made quilt. It now hangs in our dining room. It is all quilted now, too, all by machine. I finished it in the summer of 1999.

Here's my first bed-sized quilt - a queen-sized Dresden plate I made just in time for Mother's Day for my mom in 2000. She had some of her friends quilt it.

I sewed this quick Ohio Star quilt I made in red, white, and blue colors for our trip to Mount Rushmore for the 4th of July, 2000. Pictured are my sister, Julie, my sons Scott and Bobby, and me.

I made this Lone Star quilt I made for my younger sister, Julie. It looks good from a distance! I'm taking a class to learn how to

Here's a table runner I made in the fall of 2000 using the "stack and whack" technique. Pretty cool, huh? I bought make it more easily.

Christmas fabric to make another one, but I haven't gotten to it yet. :) Hopefully I'll make it for Christmas 2001.

I also made a night star table runner, but I sent it to friends in Germany without taking a picture of it first.

You can also see a few of my Alpine Village houses. I also collect those (from Department 56).

Here's another Lone Star quilt I made after taking a class in 2001 to learn the easy way to make these. It went much better this time! The book "The Joy of Quilting" explains the process. I should have marked it better before quilting it, though...

I made our daughter, Anne, a t-shirt quilt for her 18th birthday in September, 2001. She picked out the shirts and flannel for the borders. The back has a cute fleece pattern with pastel northern woods animals.

Here's a quilt I made my brother-in-law,

Here's another "stack and whack" quilt

George, for Christmas 2001. I got the cool fish fabric at www.mybluebamboo.com and made the design myself. Love the colors!

I made for Christmas 2001. The main fabric has a lot of different Santa Clauses on it. Using a folding mirror really helps in picking out the fabric.

My daughter, Anne, and son, Bobby, are holding up the quilt.

Below is a "Glimpse of the Past" batik quilt I made in the winter of 2002. I got this fabric from www.mybluebamboo.com.

Below is my lovely daughter, Anne, in her dorm room with her new "Wizard of Oz" quilt I made using the Yellow Brick Road pattern. I got the kit to make it from www.mybluebamboo.com.

Below is a patriotic table runner I made from a kit and I wall hanging I made with my favorite fishermen in it. I ironed the photos onto satin fabric.

Anne decided to make a quilt herself for her boyfriend in December 2002. She figured out how to sew four squares together and then cut them at an angle to make the triangles. She used all corduroy fabrics for the top and a plaid flannel on the back. Nice job, eh?!

Below is a picture of my niece, Kristin, with a friendship star quilt I made her in the spring of 2002.

Below is a picture of my niece, Tina, with a t-shirt quilt I made her for Christmas in 2002. I used t-shirts from her dad to make the quilt. I made another one for her brother, Tommy.

Below is a "Wedding Roses" quilt my daughter and I made for her friend's wedding. It uses butterfly fabric shaped like flowers. I did the piecing, and Anne quilted it in the spring of 2003.

Here's a quilt made with horse fabric. My brother, Jay, and his wife, Pat, love horses. I fussy cut the horses and used a dark green flannel for the backing.

Here's an Ohio Star quilt I made with Christmas fabric from www.mybluebamboo.com in Dec. 2003

Below is another batik quilt I made in 2004. Cool color scheme, eh?

Here's a Children's Delight pattern quilt I made for my editor's first baby. The pattern is from the book "The Quilt Maker's Gift."

Below is a quilt I made for my brother-in-law and his wife's wedding. I used the "Wedding Roses" pattern again with very traditional fabric.

Below is a Christmas photo quilt I finished Nov. 20, 2005! Dan ironed the photos onto sateen cotton fabric for me, so it actually didn't take too long to make. The colors are a bit wild....! I'll have to try another photo quilt with a simpler pattern.

I took a community ed class in March 2006 and learned to make a stained glass quilt. It's pretty cool. The key is the bias tape to sew it all together. Below is a bright butterfly I made with gold bias tape. You can get free patterns from www.spectrumglass.com.

Below is another stained glass quilt I made for my niece, Kristin, for her 4th birthday in April 2006. She loves princesses, so I created one just for her!

I got to see my college friend, Gabrielle's, quilt shop in Columbus Indiana, where I bought this cute Michael Miller panel. My nephew, Peter, and his wife, Stephanie, are having their first baby in September, 2006. I hope he likes it!

Below is a fall quilt I made in September 2006. I used a free Fons & Porter pattern called autumn at the courthouse. I still need to quilt and bind it, hopefully soon!

Below is a quick flannel quilt I made for our friends, Stan and Joan, in January 2007. We love visiting them in Colorado.

I made another wedding rose quilt for my brother-in-law, George, and his wife, Jenny, in June 2007. They wanted the colors to match their green and brown bedspread.

Here's my first quilt based on a book by Kaffe Fassett called Quilt Road. It's called the All Season Garden Quilt. I could only find about half of his fabrics, but I think it looks pretty cool. I made it in May 2008 after too long a break from quilting.

Here's another Kaffe Fassett quilt/tablecloth from his Glorious Patchwork book that I made in June 2008. Too bad I cut the triangles half the size they should have been; I would have finished it much faster! Isn't it gorgeous?! It's in the small photo at the top of this page, too.

Below is a wall hanging I made using

Here's a baby quilt for my great niece, photos of my husband's snow sculptures. We printed the photos on silk fabric, then I sewed it onto a fancy table runner I bought at Marshall's. It hangs in our friends home in Colorado.

Below is another tablecloth quilt I made in late 2009 based on Kaffe Fassett's Leafy Rose quilt from his Glorious Patchwork book. I used several fabrics, some from the Farmer's Market series to get the fruits and vegetables.

Olivia. It uses Circle Monkey fabric her mom, Tina, liked. I fussy cut the bigger blocks and the little monkey faces around the big blocks.

I made my mom a rag quilt in 2010 out of poinsettia fleece and sold colors of flannel. I'll put up a photo of it soon. (Forgot to take one before I mailed it to her). It was kind of a pain cutting all of those seams, but the rest was easy.